Largest State Dairy Concerns In Consolidation

HUGE COMBINE OF DAIRY FIRM IS ANNOUNCED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—(U.P.)—Consolidation of the Golden State Milk Products company and the Los Angeles Creamery company, two of the outstanding firms of the coast dealing with dairy products, was announced tonight.

The merger was made known by L. E. Ploda, chairman of the board of the Golden State firm and George Platt, president of the Los Angeles Creamery company.

"The plans of consolidation contemplate exchange of stock in the Los Angeles Creamery for shares of the Golden State company and as a consequence there will be no public financing," the officials said.

The Los Angeles firm has plants in Los Angeles, Tulare, Hanford, San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Oxnard, Ventura, San Pedro, Long Beach, Santa Fe Springs, Pasadena, Glendale, El Monte, Santa Monica, and Hollywood.

The Golden State company had about 30 plants in California when it started an expansion program two years ago and bought the plants of the Northern California Milk Producers association and several others in this part of the state. It also made selling arrangements with the Petaluma Co-operative creamery.

Firm Here Is Capitalized At $500,000

A $500,000 Richmond firm, known as the Pacific Minerals company, has been incorporated for the purpose of consolidating two rock crushing plants and paving the way for wider activity in this field, it was disclosed here yesterday.

Formation of the company was under the direction of Attorneys Tanning and De Lap, legal counsel for the corporation.

On the board of directors are Kenneth Williams, Altadena; Chas. Renwick, T. H. DeLap and L. J. Younce, all of Richmond; Malcolm Stewart of Burlingame.

Offices for the new firm have been opened in the Syndicate building, Tenth and Macdonald.

According to announcement yesterday by Attorney DeLap, the rock crushers at Placerville and Angeles Camp are acquired by the new half million dollar corporation. Crushed rock from these plants finds a wide and ready market from manufacturers of roofing, and it is the intention of the firm to increase activity at both plants.

$100,000 BANK TO BE OPENED IN TWO WEEKS

The new building of the Richmond Commercial and Savings bank at Twelfth street and Macdonald avenue will be completed and ready for occupancy on June 20, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by George E. Barnett, president.

The massive vault door, weighing approximately five tons, was installed yesterday by the Herman Safe company of San Francisco. This door is of solid steel, four inches in thickness, insuring adequate protection to the vaults of the bank.

Exterior work on the building is practically completed and the scaffolding erected for applying the outer finish was removed yesterday. During the next two weeks workmen will finish the interior of the building, a greater portion of which has already been completed. The plaster work and tile flooring is completed and there remains only the erection of lighting fixtures and equipment and decorating.

The building is built in the Italian renaissance style of architecture of reinforced concrete with stucco finish in a warm pink shade. Pre-cast concrete capitals add to the beauty of the exterior walls and the appearance is further heightened by the wrought iron grill work of the large windows and the entrance door. This grill work will be polychromed adding contrast in color to the remainder of the building.

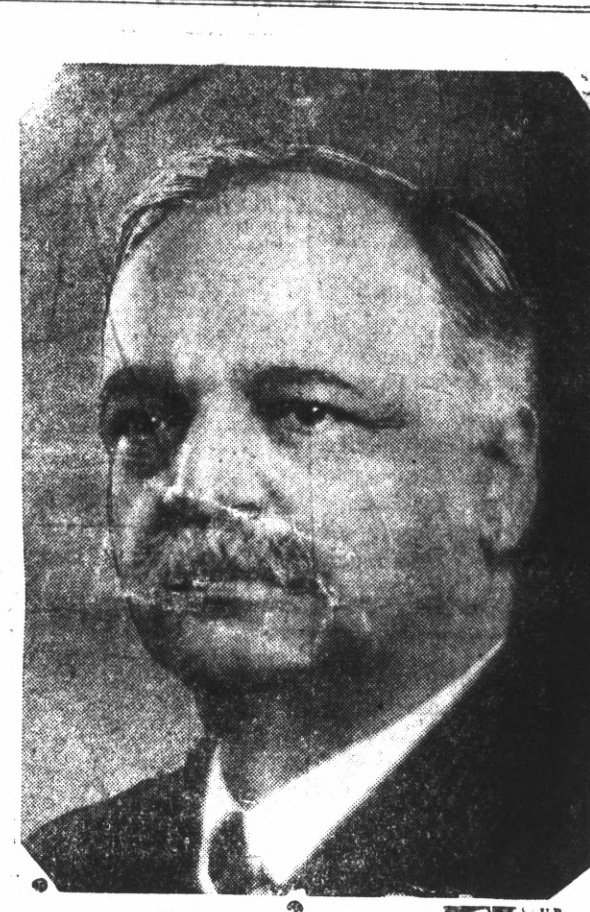

Completed, the building will represent an investment of more than $100,000 not including the fixtures which will add considerably to the amount. Wallace Snelgrove of Richmond is the general contractor.

Besides quarters for the bank, the building will provide two stores, one on Macdonald avenue and the other on Twelfth street.

Presidential Nominee, Running Mate

HERBERT HOOVER

SENATOR CHARLES CURTIS

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION yesterday chose Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas for the vice-presidential nominee, giving him an even greater vote than was accorded Hoover. Curtis, like Hoover, was nominated on the first ballot, receiving more than 1000 votes. It is significant that both members of the Republican ticket started at the bottom of the ladder; Hoover as the son of an Iowa blacksmith, and Cur as an Indian jockey boy of the Kansas plains.

DANGER TOLD IN CALL FROM POLAR PARTY

By ERIK BERNDSEN, United Press Special Correspondent.

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, June 15.—(U.P.)—General Umberto Nobile and his companions of the wrecked dirigible Italia tonight were menaced by storm, hunger, cold, and open water as the ice pack, breaking up in the warmer waters, drifted eastward, according to a message received from the explorer by the Citta di Milano, the Italia's mothership.

A heavy southwest storm struck the encampment Thursday night and although the message said it was subsiding today the ice flow was drifting with increasing rapidity toward warmer waters. Nobile gave his position as 80°38' north latitude, 27°49' east longitude.

"The ice nearby is splitting and large expanses of water are suddenly appearing," the message said. "While the water affords suitable starting places for seaplanes it evokes, on the other hand, the danger of more ice flows being formed which may cause us to move our encampment."

Nobile again urged the rescue to rush food, arms, and ammunition to the encampment, red-painted tent to catch the eye of airplane searchers, surrounded by ice blocks to break the force of the bitter Arctic winds.

The explorer reported he was recovering from the injuries received when the Italia, weighted with ice, struck and demolished the gondola in which he and nine members of the crew were riding. He suffered cuts and bruises on his arm and leg. The other injured members of the expedition are out of danger, Nobile reported.

Nothing has been received here to indicate the fate or the whereabouts of the seven members of the Italia's crew blown away when the dirigible crashed and freed herself of the gondola, but the men had sufficient food for fifty days, Nobile reported, and experts believe they have managed to survive if they landed safely.

Action Deferred On New Chairman

KANSAS CITY, June 15.—(U.P.)—The Republican National committee today deferred election of a new chairman and other officers and action on contests in Georgia and Wisconsin until a special meeting called in Washington next Thursday.

The committee delegated a committee of 26 with full authority in the election and contests.

HAZELTONS RETURN

Marion Hazelton, local manager of the J. C. Penney company, accompanied by his wife, returned here after a trip thru Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska and other middle west states. The Hazeltons were away three weeks and visited their old home.

Women have made marvelous strides, an' excel at about everything now, 'cept talkin' one at a time. It's allus fascinatin' to read about th' ole pioneer days, but jest think how awful it must have been for parents to have to live in th' same cabin in th' days before girls' finishin' schools, with an eighteen-year-ole daughter.

Planes Await Good Weather For Flights

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 15.—(U.P.)—Two American girls, Miss Amelia Earhart and Miss Mabel Boll, each planning to be the first woman to fly across the Atlantic ocean, waited today for more favorable weather before taking off on the dangerous voyage.

Miss Boll and her companions of the airplane Columbia visited St. Johns from Harbor Grace, mooring the sixty-eight miles. Miss Earhart and her crew of the Fokker monoplane Friendship were at Trepassey Bay.

The plans of the crew of the Friendship were not made known, since several futile efforts had been made to take off from the harbor under the heavy load of gasoline necessary to fuel the ship on the long trip.

Miss Boll said her plans were unchanged; she intended to leave at the first favorable opportunity, and was confident of reaching England after which she planned to fly to the continent.

Father, Son Dead In Pistol Duel

HAYER, Kas., June 15.—(U.P.)—A father and his son fought with pistols in a wood 12 miles west of here today and both were killed in the duel.

James Perkins, 47, a prosperous farmer, died almost instantly while his son Ray, 24, unmarried, died later from his wounds.

The two were returning from a country dance early today when they quarrelled and decided to duel. The shots were heard by a farmer who found the two men wounded.

Questioned concerning the cause of the quarrel, the son only replied: "It was nobody's business except dad's and mine."

CYCLIST RECOVERS

John Hrobaky, 21, 2620 Nevins avenue, is recovering from injuries sustained Thursday evening in Berkeley, when the motorcycle he was riding was struck by a car driven by Delvin McCoy, 326 Lexington avenue, El Cerrito.

Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Cunningham of 440 Twenty-eighth street, will spend a few days in Yosemite Valley. They are leaving today for the valley.

Old Age Pension Fund Is Created

SAN FRANCISCO, June 15.—(U.P.)—Creation of a $12,000,000 fund to assure payment of all life insurance claims of members of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Engineers when they reach the age of 70, was approved at the organization's convention today.

The beneficiary reserve fund will be for the special and explicit purpose of paying claims when members reach old age, will be set aside immediately and it is believed the interest of the amount will pay the policy.

"It is always our policy," declared John McNamee, spokesman, "to pay our members in full when they reach 70 years of age."

Records Of Six Births Recorded

Six births were registered yesterday in the office of the health department as follows:

To Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Chas. O'Brien, 211 Morgan avenue, a son on June 4; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thompson, 1317 Barrett avenue, a son on June 9; Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Nystrom, 724 South Thirtieth street, a son on June 10; Mr. and Mrs. Lucio Goetano, 328 South Forty-first street, a son on June 11; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Adelbert Zoble, 2429 Foot-hill boulevard, a son, June 13.

Eric M. Horner, 40, of Richmond and Marjorie H. Srenna, 24, of Oakland, applied for a marriage license in Oakland yesterday.

Hoover Is Pleased At Curtis Vote

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(U.P.)—Herbert Hoover is highly pleased with the selection of Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, as his running mate on the Republican ticket.

Immediately upon learning of Curtis' nomination as vice-president, Hoover sent him the following message:

"I wish you to know how greatly I welcome your nomination and your cooperation in the task we have before us. The party is to be congratulated upon your selection."

In reply to a telegram of congratulations from President Coolidge, Hoover wired his thanks as follows:

"I was greatly touched by your telegram. During the last seven years, you have given me unremitting friendship and my hope is that it will continue to sustain me in this new task."

"Your high sense of duty and your devotion to the public service will always be for me an inspiration."

VICE-PRESIDENTIAL HONOR GOES TO KANSAS SENATOR

By CARL D. GROAT, United Press Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 15.—(U.P.)—The Republican National Convention has gone into history after nominating Herbert Hoover as its presidential candidate and Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas as vice-presidential candidate.

Nomination of Curtis as Hoover's running mate was made this afternoon. Curtis swept the convention, getting 1052 votes, while vice-president Dawes got 13, Herman Ekern, LaFollette leader in Wisconsin, polled 19; and Hanford MacNider, prominent American Legionnaire, 2. Three were absent and not voting.

The man who had bitterly assailed Hoover earlier in the week while the "stop Hoover" movement of the allies was in full blast, was swept into the nomination after a series of other candidates and "possibilities" had been brushed aside for one reason and another. Curtis, in whose veins Indian blood flows, was picked because here in the mid-west, the heart of the farm revolt belt—he is a strong political power. The president and vice president makers knew "Charley" Curtis' name would be one with which to conjure—a name that perhaps would be more potent in the farm belt than the promises of Candidate Hoover to do his utmost to find a proper farm relief solution.

There were bursts of color in today's session, but for the most part, it was a "cut and dried" affair—a sort of anticlimax following a week of convention and pre-convention maneuvering that left many scars, but did not de-

Radio To Be Weapon In Vote Drive

By ALFRED F. RECK, United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(U.P.)—The radio, over which secretary of Commerce Herbert C. Hoover, was the first dictator, will be his chief weapon in his campaign for the presidency, it was said today.

And "Mike"—the inconspicuous little dial at the broadcasting end of radio station—will place the Republican nominee on an equal footing with the most vociferous candidate which the Democratic party might choose.

Hoover is not a good orator. His speaking voice does not carry well. His delivery lacks the gestures which go far in holding attention or emphasizing a statement. But "Mike" will eliminate this inequality. Hoover has a good broadcasting voice—soft, steady, unemotional—as demonstrated in a number of radio speeches he has made.

Hoover does not make friends easily. The politicians say he is aloof, cool and unapproachable, all of which is partially true. He does not indulge in back slapping, hand shaking and other well known commodities of the political profession, but well chosen words over the radio will make him more friends than a circle tour of the nation ever could.

Hoover is more or less of an individualist by training and by surroundings. For his position in life he has no one to thank more than himself. The greater portion of his life has been spent in pioneering where he has had to depend upon himself and his own resourcefulness for success.

Ellis Has Narrow Escape From Death

William Ellis, 466 Dimm avenue, assistant superintendent of streets narrowly escaped severe injuries and possible death yesterday when his machine was struck by a Santa Fe train entering the yards here.

It is reported that Ellis failed to notice the line of cars until the train was almost upon his car. The auto was sideswiped by the train and forced against a telephone pole. Ellis was uninjured and was able to drive his car away.

Cross Nation Flight Mark To Be Tried

LOS ANGELES, June 15.—(U.P.)—In an attempt to establish a new transcontinental flight record, Frank Tomick, former world war aviator will hop off from here Sunday morning for New York.

He will fly a special De Havilland biplane, owned by Howard Hughes, president of the Caddo Motion Picture company, and will carry a recently produced film.

The present record for the flight across the nation is held by Oakley Kelly and John MacReady, who flew from New York to San Diego in 26 hours, 50 minutes, 38.25 seconds. The trip was made in 1923.

CARRANZA

Captain Emilio Carranza has arrived in Washington to repay the visit that Colonel Charles Lindbergh made to Mexico City. Thus the courtesy has been returned, and Mexico can take just pride in the fact that although not equipped industrially as the United States is to promote aviation, it has men of the temperament and skill to be splendid aviators. The feat of the Mexican flying captain is a joint accomplishment of himself as a trained pilot and of the United States makers of the ship which he flew.

We have no doubt that one of the earliest messages of congratulations to reach the captain will be from the colonel, whose call he is repaying. The colonel was told of the arrival the day before of LeBrix and Costes, the French globe girdlers at Paris and of the misfortune of Carranza in wedging his airplane between a couple of pinon trees near Ajo.

Lindbergh dismissed the feat of the Frenchmen in flying from Tokio to Paris in six days with a single word "Good" but he evinced his interest in Carranza by pouring out a stream of questions that caused him to blush and apologize for "acting like a newspaperman." He wanted to know all about Carranza, was he hurt, was his plane much damaged; what kind of ship it was and what motor did it carry?

If they ever have a revolution in Italy and Mussolini is thrown out of work its our opinion he can always get a job in the United States as a big league umpire.

It is our opinion that a lot of delegates are going to come home from Houston and Kansas City with tar on their fingers—from grabbing at the band wagon.

We know something would happen when Al Smith left home and went south on a trip. They raised the subway fare to seven cents.

It seems to us that they may carry this thing too far. Now some Englishman has written a poem about the trans-Atlantic fliers.

When it comes to stockings the ultra-modern girl can roll her own; but when it comes to cigarettes, she buys 'em already rolled.

It is said that they are expecting to strike oil soon in Portuguese East Africa. How scandalous.

"Skirts will be longer," say fashion experts. So they said last year, and look at 'em now!

BEAUTY

By LAURA LANE

From a girl who signs herself merely "Patsy" comes a letter that I would like to reproduce in full. It is four pages, handwritten, and as breathless as the girl herself must be.

Patsy's burden is that she is getting little lines around her eyes, although she is only 18. What can the matter be, she asks, and then goes on to answer her own question.

"Now, please don't tell me it's because I don't get enough sleep. That's what the folks say. I get to bed every night before 2 o'clock and I'm up at 8, but six hours sleep is enough for me. If I get any more I just feel awful all the next day. No pep, so anything."

"I read somewhere that if you're used to it you can get along with four hours sleep or even less. So why can't I get along with six?"

Patsy does have the support of some psychologists who say that the hours of sleep necessary are not determined by the body, but by the mind. But for most of us the traditional eight hours is a great aid to health and beauty.

I dislike to disappoint you, Patsy, but I fear that the lines around the eyes are caused by lack of sufficient sleep. For one thing there is no way in the world to give your face a rest than to put the rest of you to sleep. The mere act of putting your head in a horizontal position relieves the drag upon the skin and muscles of the face.

Sleep is certainly one of the most potent of all beautifiers. And if Patsy and others like her "simply can't" sleep their full eight hours let them make the most of their inability and dab a bit of nourishing cream around the eyes just before "turning in."

The girls in our office have a joke between themselves of saying, "It doesn't matter," or "Who cares?" to anything that may be said. The other day the boss came and told me that the head director was dying. Instead of being sympathetic, I commenced hand gestures and repeated our pet phrases, only to be brought back to earth by the bewildered gaze of the boss.—J. M. Stewart

All were ready. They did not have to close and lock their door house. They knew their house was safe.

Other Mexican families were on the road to town. Juanito's father had some turkeys. He drove them down the road like sheep. He had a long whip. He guided them with this whip. He set another man.

"I will buy your turkeys," said the man.

"All?" said father. "No!"

"Why not?" asked the man.

"If I sell all my turkeys, I shall have no use to go to town," father said.

"Oh," said the man, "Sell me ONE turkey, then."

So father did.

McLaglen IS FEATURED IN PICTURE HERE

A story alive with interest, colorful backgrounds that include the famous ports of the seven seas from Amsterdam to Panama and a cast of screen lights including Victor McLaglen in the starring role, all help to make "A Girl in Every Port" a cinema triumph.

This latest Fox film feature which had its local premier at the California theatre yesterday before a crowded house is probably one of the best photo dramas of the season seen in this city.
McLaglen, who is remembered as having achieved an almost instant fame with his performance in the role of Captain Flag in "What Price Glory," the star role of Spike Madden, which is his in the present picture, is his reward for his work in the war epic. And McLaglen conclusively proves he deserves the coveted honor of star by his performance as Spike.

The story deals with a motor-driven on a merchant ship, who as the title tells, has a girl in every port. And what a galaxy of beautiful actresses have been chosen for McLaglen's ten leading ladies. Every type is represented from blonde Nordic to dark eyed Brazilian. Louise Brooks, Maria Casarini, Natalia Joyce, Gretel Zylt, Lela Haynes and Gloria Jurado are some of the well known beauties who play the parts of the hero's sweethearts in the various ports.
Robert Armstrong is first the rival and then the boon companion of McLaglen and together they manage to keep an audience entertained and amused every moment of the showing.

"A Girl in Every Port" was directed by Howard Hawks with realism, sympathy and humor.
Other film features include:
Twenty Legs Under the Sea
A Variety Comedy, News and Felix the Cat.

Windows Give Key to Character of Home

Character of Exterior and Interior Depends on Artistic Curtain and Luster
of Glass Panels.

The passerby and the guest within your walls the windows are one of the chief indications of the character of your home.

The window is the only feature that gives an equally important part, whether viewed from the outside or from the interior by the library fire.

If the windows are artistically curtained, or are glazed with lackluster panes, they inevitably suggest a home in which mediocrity and dullness are the predominant elements. If, on the other hand, the panes gleam with a lustrous sheen, and are hung with draperies selected with due care and consideration, they just as inevitably denote a home in which cheerfulness and good taste reign supreme.

Plate Glass Brightens Home
Good taste, based upon a knowledge of the available curtain fabrics and a few basic principles of window decoration, will enable any woman, at a comparatively small cost, to achieve an attractive setting or background for her windows. That clarity and crystalline lustre which are primarily essential in creating a bright and cheerful effect will, however, depend largely upon the type of glass used for glazing.

The gayest curtains will lose much of their charm if contrasted with, or dulled by, lustreless or flawed panes. For this reason, plate glass windows, due to their high polish and freedom from disadvantage. The predominate color must, of course, harmonize with the color scheme of the room as a whole.

The kitchen and bathroom windows, too, can be made to strike a note of agreeable distinction. Curtains of plain net with a valance of light cretonne are appropriate for the bathroom. Checked gas-ham is well adapted for use in the kitchen. If the curtains are made in two tiers you will be able to regulate the light as you desire.

When it comes to the draperies for the living room, library and hall it should be remembered that unless the house is of the colonial period or has very high ceilings the drapes should come to within an inch or two of the floor. Simple bedroom and dining room hangings should end at the bottom of the window casings.

In rooms furnished with reproductions from the early Spanish and Renaissance periods the draperies should be heavy and rather somber in tone, with straight lines and fairly sharp angles. With colonial furniture, or with the modern furniture of no distinct period, lighter hangings are desirable. Blocked linen or cretonne, hung in graceful folds, are in excellent taste.

If the rugs and upholstery are plain, and the wall paper is of an indistinct design, the drapes should be figured. With figured rugs and vantage. The predominate color must, of course, harmonize with

the color scheme of the room as a

The kitchen and bathroom win-

of light cretonne are appropriate for the bathroom. Checked gas-

kitchen. If the curtains are made in two tiers you will be able to regulate the light as you desire.

When it comes to the draperies

for the living room, library and
hall it should be remembered that unless the house is of the colonial
period or has very high ceilings
the drapes should come to within
an inch or two of the floor. Simple bedroom and dining room hangings should end at the bottom of the window casings.

In rooms furnished with reproductions from the early Spanish
and Renaissance periods the draperies should be heavy and rather
somber in tone, with straight lines
and fairly sharp angles. With colonial furniture, or with the modern furniture of no distinct period, lighter hangings are desirable. Blocked linen or cretonne,
hung in graceful folds, are in excellent taste.

If the rugs and upholstery are plain, and the wall paper is of an
indistinct design, the drapes should be figured. With figured rugs and figured upholstery, striped draperies will combine to the best advantage. The predominate color must, of course, harmonize with the color scheme of the room as a whole.

REAL INDIANS ARE SHOWN IN WESTERN FILM

More than a thousand full-blood ed Apache and Shawnee Indians from the Wind River reservation, appear in Tim McCoy's "Spoilers of the West," a colorful frontier film drama now being shown at the Richmond theatre.

Through arrangement with the United States government, McCoy was enabled to persuade these Indians, of whom he is a blood brother, to appear in his picture.

Marjorie Daw appears in the featured feminine role opposite McCoy and the cast contains such well known and experienced Western players as William Fairbanks, for years a Western star in his own right.

The picture was directed by W.
S. Van Dyke from an original story especially written as a Western film by the writer, who plays the role of Chief Red Cloud in "Spoilers of the West" is a full-blooded Apache Indian and was born on the Wind River reservation in the state of New York.

He ran away from the tribe when he was twelve years old and joined a medicine show, touring America and Europe. Later he went into vaudeville and then joined Indian roles on the speaking stage. He has been in pictures for several years as a depictor of Indian characters, co-starring with Tim McCoy in "Way Paint," "Winners of the Wilderness," "The Frontiersman" and "Way Out." Other film features include:
"The King of the Jungle," No. 3 and "Felix the Cat."

TENDERLOIN

By Arlene de Haas

She White, the beau of the Beau, is seated at a table in Kelly's Ringers Cafe, drinking beer with a man whom he addresses as "Sparrow." Sparrow reminds Chuck that he is due to pull something big. Later in the evening, Sparrow, telling him that he is badly in need of money, later Chuck takes Rose home to his dingy lodgings.

At last they reached the top floor of the old, tumble-down rooming house and Rose opened her door.
She felt along the shelf for the packet of matches, and struck one, applying it to the gas jet. A sudden flame burst into being, revealing the shabbiness of a Bowery tenement. The dark red paper had once been figured with great bunches of roses, but the flowers had long ago lost their first freshness of bloom, and now they hung dejected, where they hung at all, Rose blew out the match and placed it carefully in a little tin beside the bed.

Chuck's smile was a happy one,
applying it to the gas jet. A sudden flame burst into being, revealing the shabbiness of a Bowery tenement. The dark red paper had once been figured with great
bunches of roses, but the flowers
had long ago lost their first freshness of bloom, and now they hung
dejected, where they hung at all, Rose blew out the match and
placed it carefully in a little tin beside the bed.

"Well, Chuck, this is this is home," Chuck laughed, self consciously as he flung out his arms to show the small cubby-hole that harbored her.

Chuck looked about him. On one side of the room, facing the door, stood a rickety oak washstand with a cracked bowl and pitcher. One gray, bedraggled towel hung limply over the rack. A cracked mirror, mirrored with age, was suspended over the stand. A solitary chair, the paint badly scraped off, stood beside the white iron bed, spotted and peeling. A dingy window, now black and rain-spotted, looked out onto a courtyard. Only the cheap cretonne curtains that formed a sort of wardrobe lent a touch of color to the room.

"It ain't so ducky, kid," Chuck turned and caught Rose's hand, severely noting the shabbiness of his surroundings. "One of these days I'll get you a swell dump—if you're good."

Rose laughed and evaded the arm that was already reaching about her waist. "Listen, Chuck, don't you want some coffee? I'm going to make some." She turned for a second, impulsively, and looked into the man's eyes, and threw her arms about his neck. And then laughing, she pushed him away. She opened the little cupboard beneath the washstand and drew out a gray enameled coffee pot scorched from the gas flames, and filled it up with water.

Chuck flung his hat and coat across the only chair and sat down, rubbing his hands to warm them.
He watched Rose as she busied herself about the room. He glanced sideways once or twice at the bed, and then his eyes would take up their appraising look. He was quite sure of himself now.
He'd never met a Jane yet who turned him down, and the way he had been trailing this little dame was nobody's business, he told himself. "Here she comes," he thought about her, she wasn't hard-boiled.
That meant that she wouldn't be after him for a lot of dough and glad rags. He reached out his hand and tried to pull the girl down on his knee.

Rose laughed happily and caught his hand in hers. "Do you know, Chuck, you're the first man that's ever been in my room. It does seem sort of funny—I don't know whether it's right or not." She looked at Chuck appealingly, as though for confirmation of her unbounded confidence in him.

"Sure, it's all right, honey," Chuck assured her. "I wouldn't do nothing in the world to hurt you, honest." He put his arms about her tenderly, certain now of his ground.

Suddenly Rose broke loose from his clasp, gasping. "Heavens, Chuck, the coffee!" She rushed over to the burner, snatching the towel on her way, and reached for the pot that was already boiling over and bubbling on the plate.

"Let's forget the java, honey," Chuck reached over and took her hand from the cup. "Heaven, about 'I gotta leave you pretty soon. I gotta business date or two.'" Rose frowned, not at all understanding what was going on in Chuck's mind. In fact she was a little startled, he paid such small attention to all her ministrations and yet, at the same time, her heart jumped with joy, for she believed that it was because Chuck thought more of her than she did of the coffee. She had wanted her to forget it. And so she allowed him to draw her closely to him.

Chuck's smile was a happy one,
applying it to the gas jet. A sudden flame burst into being, revealing the shabbiness of a Bowery tenement. The dark red paper had once been figured with great
bunches of roses, but the flowers
had long ago lost their first freshness of bloom, and now they hung
dejected, where they hung at all, Rose blew out the match and
placed it carefully in a little tin beside the bed.

But as his breath flamed hot on her neck, and his kisses grew more passionate, she suddenly and looked into his eyes. She drew back, startled, as she suddenly realized that what she saw there was not the love she had believed, but a calculating coldness that frigid-ly eyed her. But Chuck's arms only closed about her in a tighter grasp. Frantically she pushed with futile hands at his face, trying to tear his lips away from her. He stared at her at last in bewilderment.

"What's the matter, kid? Don't you love me," he questioned, frowning.

But Rose had jumped to her feet and was standing, leaning against the wash stand, her eyes bright with tears. She shook her head, gazing with hurt looks at the man before her. Her slight body trembled, her head bowed, and she sighed. No one had ever kissed her the way Chuck had, and she could not yet realize what he had meant.
But she only knew from that look she had seen on his face that there was something strange about the entire situation.

"Aw, geez, Babe, I didn't mean nothing wrong. I'm sorry. Come on, kiss me and tell me you'll forgive me." For the moment Chuck's face was soft and tender as he looked at the slender, golden haired figure before him. He decided to try new tactics. Maybe she needed a little coaxing—maybe he had been a little heavy and so he rose and put his arms about her and kissed her very gently.

"You're a sweet kid, honest," Chuck brushed back the curly hair that fell in a mass of ringlets all about the slender oval face. But that appealing look was too appealing and Chuck's lips were once more covering her eyes, her cheeks, her mouth.

"Chuck, please, you mustn't! You mustn't!" Rose tried to pull herself away. "Oh, please, Chuck!" But the time was growing short and Chuck knew that it was almost the hour for his rendezvous and he had no intention of being off and leaving this girl after he had spent so many, many evenings just being nice to her and playing up for this one moment. And so he drew more insistently towards the bed, his arms clasped about her like bands of iron.

"No! No! No!" Rose shrieked.
Her tiny fists beat a futile trade on his chest, struggling impotently against a fate that seemed all marked out for her. Blindly she battled, and as she sobbed she remembered the words of Mamie uttered earlier in the evening.
"She had been a fool to trust herself alone with this man. All the past warnings of the girls around the Cafe flashed through her mind.
She must do something, and yet she could not free herself. Desperate, she flung out her arms behind her.
Her hands caught on the back of the washstand, balancing her for a moment. Suddenly her fingers struck against an old clock. With all the frenzy born of desperation, she snatched it, raising it high in the air, and with all her strength brought it down on the head of this person who was slowly overpowering her.
Suddenly the body of the man crashed to the floor, crumpling up, writhing before her. Rose stood as still as though she had been suddenly turned to stone. She stared down at the figure, scarcely realizing what she had done. She saw a faint trickle of blood oozing across Chuck's forehead. The sight made her slightly sick, and she wavered for a moment, unsteadily. The weight in her hand caused her to look and then she knew that she herself had caused the blood, for there was the clock, a little smear of red across its face.

QUAKE EXPERT EXPLAINS HIS PREDICTIONS

FAENZA, June 15.—(U.P.)—Rafaele Bendandi, "the earthquake man," told in an exclusive interview to the United Press, the story of how he became a seismologist expert.

By trade a cabinet-maker and wood-carver, Bendandi spent a lot of his time in the study of physics, astronomy and geography, but it was the famous Messina earthquake in 1908 that set him thinking of the possibilities of forecasting the seismic disturbances.

He now asserts that he can infallibly forecast the date and time of any earthquake in the world, though at present he can only state the region and not the precise locality where trouble may be expected.

Signor Bendandi's laboratory is in his own house, and he has put most of it together with his own hands. For his first seismograph, constructed by himself, he was obliged to use for the counterpoise a bust of Seneca which had remained with him as a relic of his school days.

Speaking of his life's work he said, "I have examined the reports of 20,000 earthquakes that have occurred throughout the world, and have foretold the coming of hundreds and hundreds."

The little cabinet-maker has volumes of press-clippings from nearly every civilized country in the world in which his predictions are borne out by facts.

His correspondence is voluminous, and includes requests from timid folk for a reassuring word that their part of the world is not in danger from earthquakes, letters of congratulation, of disapproval, and offers of marriage.

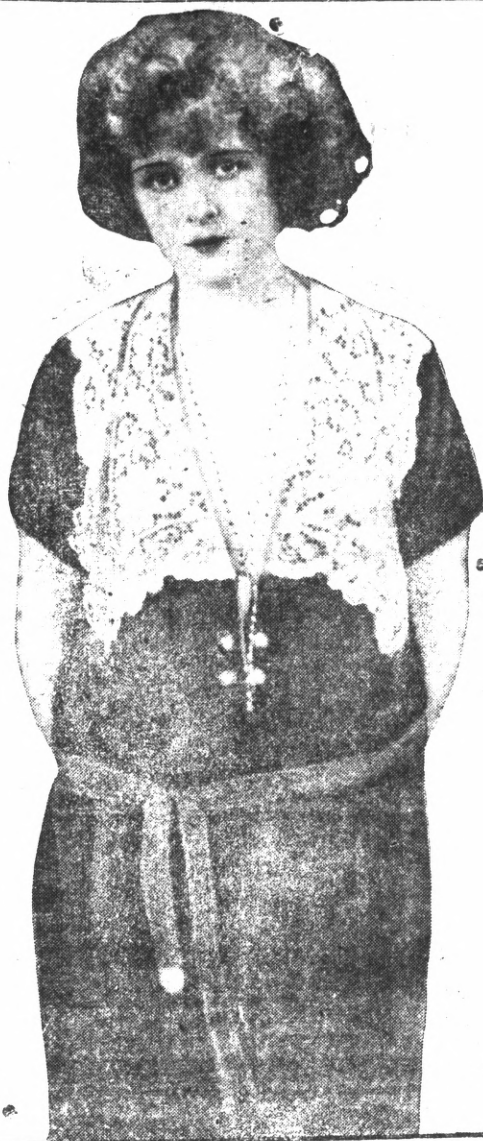

With regard to future earthquakes, Signor Bendandi's predictions are as follows: Seismic disturbances during June in Northern China and the Eastern part of Siberia. Light earthquakes in the Sonde Isles and Southwest Mexico are zones where seismic disturbances will occur. In Italy there is nothing in view at present.

Italy Fetes Piave Battle Anniversary

ROME, June 15.—(U.P.)—The tenth anniversary of the Battle of the Piave, which was the prelude of the Austrian downfall in the war, and after Vittorio Veneto, the most important encounter on the Italian front, was celebrated by the army today with parades and reviews while the people of Rome and other cities decked their windows and balconies with the tricolor in honor of the event.

Patriotic demonstrations and processions of war veterans were held throughout the country, and the "Hymn of the Piave" the battle song, which after Giovanni "za" is the most popular patriotic song, was played and sung.

The artillery regiments which took such an active part in smashing the Austrian offensive that began on June 15, 1918, and ended in the fatal retreat on June 23, were addressed in their barracks squares by Division Generals and their commanding officers.

In the evening, government and public buildings were illuminated in all the large cities.

Old Baptist Building To Be Razed
Wrecking of the old First Baptist church building, which was recently purchased by P. McMillan of North Richmond, will commence immediately, according to an announcement made by Rev. Wilson, pastor.

The old church was vacated a few months ago, following completion of the new $75,000 church at Thirteenth and Barrett avenue. It is understood that the lot on which the old building is situated, will be sold for business purposes.

SUPPORTERS OF DAM BACK S. P. BRIDGE

MARTINEZ, June 15.—Asserting that in their judgment, the building of the Southern Pacific railroad bridge from Martinez to Arroyo Point will in no manner conflict with the construction of the salt water barrier across Suisun Bay, the Industrial Water Users association at a conference in Pittsburgh last night went on record as heartily and unanimously endorsing the railroad span, voting to forward resolutions to the War Department asking that the application for authority to construct the bridge be granted.

Central Costa industrial executives represented in the association went into all details of the bridge project and with all engineering data before them, including estimates of cost, type of bridge structure, location of the spans, etc., found that neither project would interfere with the other and that the two were of such a widely divergent character that it would not be practical to construct them in unity.

Film Will Depict Shriners' Aid To Crippled Children

Shriners throughout the country are erecting and maintaining hospitals for crippled children. Recently a film was made in Hollywood, showing the good work that the Shriners are doing by taking in crippled children and caring for them until cured. To night Shrine temple will show this film as part of the program that will provide the annual picnic ceremonial. The ceremonial is to be held in the theatre of the Oakland municipal auditorium with illustrious Potomac Ezra W. Deane presiding. Arrangements for showing the film have been made by Pasquotate Dr. William J. McCracken, chairman of Aahme crippled children's hospital committee. A large class of candidates will be taken into the shrine according to Bob Abernethy, recorder of Aahme temple.

Plump Stars Of Film Land Now Favored

HOLLYWOOD, June 15, While motion picture agreements still retain their weight clauses—and a contract is sometimes broken, when an actress goes over the mark—there appears to be a trend toward plumper stars this season.

The development, which would indicate that curves are again to be considered artistically beautiful, has been noted among both the youngsters and veterans of the screen.

Nancy Carroll, Sally Phipps, Audrey Ferris and Lina Basquette, all comparatively new to films, have a slight tendency to curves. Laura La Plante, Renee Adoree, Marie Prevost and Billie Dove, are among the better known players who run a little to plumpness.

Then, of course, there is Molly O'Day, who is working again after First National shelved her temporarily for having picked up some ten pounds more than she was allowed under her contract with the studio.

Sassoni To Build $4000 Home Here

CLOSE CONTEST LOST BY LIONS SCORE 12 TO 11

The Firemen won again last night, beating the Lions by one run. The score was 12 to 11.

The Lions started out with a bang, scoring four runs in the first inning. Then they were slow down. But in the sixth inning, they tied the score by chalking up six runs. The Firemen broke up the tie by scoring two runs in the sixth. Then the Lions tried to tie the score again in the seventh, but the best they could do was to get two men on base and score one run.

Hathaway pitched for the Firemen, fanning seven and walking only one. However, the Lions got 13 hits off him.

Jack Burg pitched for the Lions and was not going so well. He fanned only two, walked four and allowed 13 hits.

Both sides made plenty of errors. Evans, Martin, Paasch, Huzefka, Bob Smith, Hays and Dietrich made one error and Clinton Smith got credit for two boos.

There were no home runs knocked, but Pete Martin clouted a three-bagger to the center-field corner that would have been a round trip for a faster runner.

Next week ends the league. The American Trust Company and the Lions tangle on Tuesday night and the Firemen and Mechanics Bank clash on Friday.

STRONG FIELD WILL COMPETE FOR OLYMPICS

By FRANK GETTY

United Press Sports Editor

The strongest array of track and field athletes ever to answer a sectional Olympic qualifying summons will be competing this afternoon in Yankee Stadium.

The first four men in each event, and in the case of the sprinters a greater number will go to Cambridge next month for the final tryouts upon which the selection of the American Olympic team of 1928 will be based.

Track and field followers will find much to absorb their attention in today's eastern tryouts.

Who is the fleetest of a group of sprinters which includes Chet Bowman, Jackson Scholz, Karl Wildermuth, Hank Russell, Roland Locke, Frank Hussey and Louis Clarke?

It would be difficult indeed to say that only the first four in such a field were entitled to another chance at Cambridge before the final Olympic selection is made.

The United States needs all its strength in the sprints this year. A fortnight ago, a German 400-meter relay team smashed the world's record which had stood since the Olympic Games of 1924. Koernig, Houben, Wickmann and Cortis ran 400 metres in a regulation athletic meet in Berlin in 40.8 seconds, which is one-fifth of a second faster than the record set by Hussey, Clarke, LeConey and Murchison at Paris.

Today's 800-metre race provides Lloyd Hahn with an opportunity to demonstrate his superiority, and its margin, if any, over his rivals among American middle distance runners.

George Leness, Pincus Sober, Eddie Swinburne, Sam Martin, Johnny Holden and Oliver Proddlock are among 800-metre aspirants who dispute the Nebraska's supremacy.

When Hahn swept the boards during the indoor track and field season, setting a new world's record for the half mile and missing the mile record by a fraction of a second, there was surprisingly little enthusiasm over his chances at Amsterdam.

Feature Race Of Olympics Called Off

LOS ANGELES, June 15—(U.P.)—Bad Luck, that has shadowed Charles Borah across the continent and back, tonight threatened to prevent the "race of the century" Saturday between the University of Southern California runner and Charles Paddock.

An internal disorder of four years duration has returned and specialists declared that there was great doubt whether Borah would be able to enter the meet.

The race was to be a feature event in the southwest Olympic finals.

Sannies Prepare For Invasion Of Cleveland Stars

Phil Jones' Richmond Sannies, again rejuvenated and revamped after a long depression in the win column, will make another effort to win back popular favor when they engage the Cleveland All-Stars tomorrow afternoon on the First street grounds. The All-Stars are a barnstorming outfit enroute to the Hawaiian Islands.

Jones, who has been somewhat put out over his team's ability to display winning form, or to cop contests while in the process of showing winning form, has added new names to the lineup and is highly optimistic over tomorrow's encounter.

Richmond Carmen To Play Walnut Creek Tomorrow

The Richmond Carmen baseball club will play Walnut Creek tomorrow on the latter's diamond, with Eighth scheduled to hurl for the local team.

As a part of the Holy Ghost fete being held in Walnut Creek, a parade will form and march to the ball grounds.

On July 4, the Richmond Carmen will journey to Fort Bragg to play the team of that city as a feature of the monster Fourth of July celebration planned by Fort Bragg.

England Leads First Day Of Wightman Play

By HARRY L. PERCY

U. P. Staff Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 15—(U.P.)—England was leading the United States, two matches to one, at the end of the first day's play for the Wightman cup, which symbolizes the women's tennis team championship of the world.

Loss of a singles and doubles match by the Americans offset the triumph of Helen Wills of Mrs. Michael Watson, 6-1, 6-2. Miss Eileen Bennett, English star, defeated Mrs. Molla Mallory 6-1, 6-3, and Miss Esther Harvey and Miss P. Saunders, England, beat Miss Eleanor Goss and Miss Helen Jacobs 6-4, 6-1.

Four matches will be played tomorrow, so the American team still has a chance to bring off a victory.

Four Junior Loop Games Scheduled On Local Fields

The Camels and Redmen of the Junior loop will meet at Nicholl field this morning at 10 o'clock, instead of this afternoon as previously announced.

At the Santa Fe grounds today the Camellies will meet the Al-berts at 8:30 in the morning; the California Bears vs. Baby Giants, 10:30; Leopards vs. Boston Babes, 1:00.

Hunter Enters Last Round Of Net Match

THE HAGUE—June 15—(U.P.)—Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, N. Y., entered the final round of the international tennis championships at The Hague today, defeating Timmer, the Dutch star, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

It is reported here that the International Lawn Tennis Federation has agreed to recognize the tournament for a substitute for the Olympic championships, so it is possible the New Yorker may win the world title.

Boyd and Robson, the Argentine pair, eliminated Hunter and Timmer in the Men's doubles, semi-final round.

Lions Banquet Junior League Team Members

Special entertainment was provided yesterday for members of the Junior ball team by the El Cerrito Lions club, with O. F. Rousseau as chairman of the day.

It was announced that Charles Schwake, one time star pastimer, would take the juvenile team under his wing in an effort to send the club along to the finals of the Junior league.

Members of the Lions heard short talks by President Louis Strard and Phil Lee who reported on the district convention held recently in San Jose.

An address on "The History of the Flag" was made by Clara Horner, Richmond attorney. Mrs. Ross Calfee sang several vocal numbers which were greatly enjoyed. She was accompanied at the piano by Emil Esola.

John Grondona, member of the Junior ball club, also made a brief talk in behalf of his team mates.

Sassy San Pablans Will Play Iberico

With two league games tucked securely in the black ink column, the sassy San Pablans tomorrow will attempt to victimize the Iberico club in a Maxwell loop contest at San Pablo.

Carl Kamb, Iron man mound artist, who has contributed much to the winning streak of the Pablans is again slated to start on the mound.

TITLE GAME IN JUNIOR LEAGUE SLATED TODAY

The championship of the American and National divisions of the Junior league will be decided at Nicholl field this afternoon when the J. C. Penney and El Cerrito Lions tangle for the right to play off for the league title against the winner of the other two divisions.

The contest is scheduled to get underway at 2:30 p. m.

Either Doyle Taylor or Weeks will start on the mound for the Lions, while the opposing team will take the field with its regular lineup.

Hot competition is expected to develop, as the winning team will have the opportunity of continuing along to the finals as long as the record shows no defeats. Representative teams from every section of the United States will meet either in Kansas City or Chicago to decide national honors.

One Million Tons of Water- borne Commerce Annually for Richmond Inner and Outer Harbor Terminals

That is the confident prediction of Chief of the U. S. Army Engineers, Major General Edgar Jadwin. It was incorporated in his report to the Rivers and Harbors Committee of Congress, urging government appropriation of sufficient funds to put 30 feet of water in the channels and turning basins.

One million tons annually is just three times as much tonnage as is at present handled over the Parr-Richmond outer and inner harbor terminals.

But with the splendid new $500,000 facility which will be built jointly by the City of Richmond and the Parr-Richmond Terminal Corporation on the Inner Harbor, the figure is conservative.

The Chief of U. S. Army Engineers has faith in Richmond's harbor and industrial development.

That faith is shared by the Chamber of Commerce, by the people of Richmond, by the City Officials, and it is that kind of faith that builds great industrial communities.

The Richmond Chamber of Commerce fosters this kind of faith—faith that calls for wholehearted co-operation from merchant, manufacturer, business and professional men and women and from layman.

School nurse says all girls should know this

One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Make a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping. Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless. Caps. 6 works so each. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

Consequently he is free thinking and individualistic.

Hoover is human—although the politicians doubt it. This was never better demonstrated than by an incident connected with his recent flood relief work in the Mississippi valley.

He was in the pilot house of a Mississippi river steamer. The night was cloud hung and starless. A youth—a bare strapping—guided the puffing, creaking vessel in and out through the swirling channel. Two pilots sat on the chart box, their eyes fixed on the dim fringe of trees outlining the banks. They talked of the things river men usually talk of—port life and women.

The pilot house door opened. A stalwart figure came in. It was Hoover.

"Good evening, gentlemen," he said.

The two pilots answered cordially, but their conversation at once ceased.

Hoover spoke to the youthful quartermaster.

"You're doing a good job of it, son," he complimented.

Again there was silence. The pilots sat quietly on the chart box. Hoover talked of the ability of river men to find their way through the darkness of the snake-like river.

Then suddenly he said:

"Have you heard the one about the Englishman?"

He told the story. It bubbled with good, clean humor. The river men laughed. They moved over and made room between them on the chart box.

"Won't you sit down, Mr. Secretary," one of them asked.

Hoover sat down, elbow to elbow with the pilots. Until long after midnight, the trio swapped yarns. He was one of them.

Plans Made On Disaster Relief Here

Plans for the disaster relief program of the Richmond chapter of the American Red Cross will be outlined during the next two weeks and the program definitely organized at a meeting to be called, according to a decision reached last night at a meeting held in Memorial hall and attended by representatives of various civic, fraternal and service organizations of the city.

The speaker of the evening was W. J. Richardson, assistant national disaster relief chairman, who told of the work of the Red Cross in disasters and called attention to the difficulties faced by chapters in communities unprepared.

He outlined disaster relief in general and gave specific instances of the recent St. Francis dam disaster.

George Rader, chairman of the local relief committee, called attention to the Berkeley plan as now organized, whereby the city is divided into definite sections to facilitate the handling of relief in case of disaster.

During the next two weeks, the committee will ask the support and advice of the various organizations that have expressed themselves as interested and willing to cooperate so that plans can be definitely outlined before the organization meeting. The meeting, last night was presided over by Bert Scoble.

President And Wife Installed In Summer Camp

CEDAR ISLAND LODGE, Wis., June 15.—(U.P.)—President and Mrs. Coolidge, noticeably weary from the long train ride from Washington, were settled in their isolated summer home tonight ready to make the most of their woodland vacation.

The president returned immediately to his home for a brief visit before he appeared at the lodge to pose for more than 30 minutes in the picturesque surrounding of the estate along the Blue river.

The president had motored to the lodge from Superior but Mrs. Coolidge merely exerted herself by participating in the Superior reception remained aboard the special to continue her journey to Winnetouj, four miles from the summer White House.

Although smiling when escorted by Mr. Coolidge across the wooden bridge connecting the island with the mainland, the first lady was wan and far from exuberant.

Scarcely an hour after his arrival at the summer White House, Coolidge was casting his line for the rainbow trout that attracted him into the woods of Wisconsin.

The president's personal servants lost no time in unpacking the executive's fishing gear and while the first lady was recuperating from the rigor of the long train journey, President Coolidge was out fishing.

The Sigma Gamma Club entertained at a delightful squab dinner Thursday evening in the Carquinez golf clubhouse. C. M. Frazer and Dooling were in charge of the affair.

J. McConnel of Richmond also entertained a number of his friends at a dinner party Thursday evening in the clubhouse. Roses and ferns made up the decorations for the tables.

Wednesday evening the club house was the scene of three dinner parties held by Mrs. W. Ross and friends, Lester Harlow and guests and McConnel and party.

Large Class to be Confirmed in St. Paul's Church

A large class will be confirmed in St. Paul's church, San Pablo on Sunday morning at the 10:30 mass. Archbishop Hanna of San Francisco will confer Holy Communion on about 100 people, both children and adults. This is the largest confirmation class in the annals of the mission.

Archbishop Hanna will be assisted by priests from the Richmond churches and the Fathers of San Pablo.

Mrs. Josephine Durand, president of the Catholic Ladies Aid will be in charge of the girls and Earnest Woodfield, president of the Holy Name Society will sponsor the large number of boys, who will be confirmed at this time.
